Students feedback

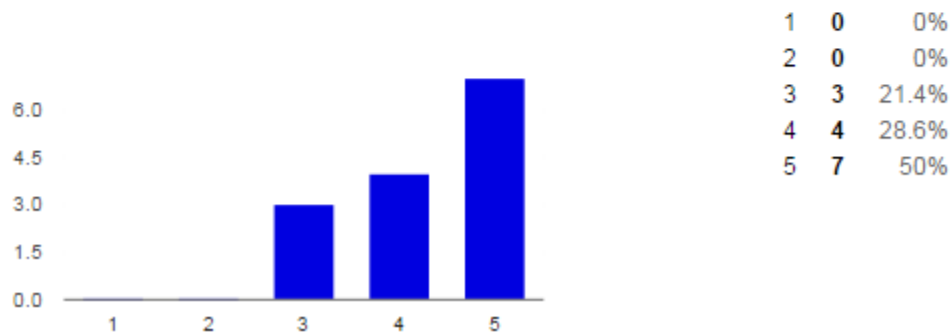

Students' involvement in curriculum review is made possible through evaluation sheets. They include questionnaires with open and closed questions. Students express their view concerning the content of lectures and seminars, teachers training, equipment, teaching methods, assessment and grading.

According to the most recent feedback received from the students (in March 2016), the overall evaluation of the MSc in PM is good (average satisfaction level for the general aspects related to the MSc in PM was measured on a scale from 1 to 5, where 1 means very unsatisfied and 5 is very satisfied), as follows:

Courses and seminars unfolding

Students also have the opportunity to propose suggestions for improving the quality of courses and seminars in a different questionnaire, disseminated at the end of every course (according to the suggestion made by the GAC Evaluation Team). Questionnaires are anonymous and are focused on receiving a direct feedback from students. This feedback is the starting point for updating courses and seminars of the following academic year. They also can promote their ideas regarding curriculum review during the courses and seminars, discussing with teachers or with the person in charge with student relationship.

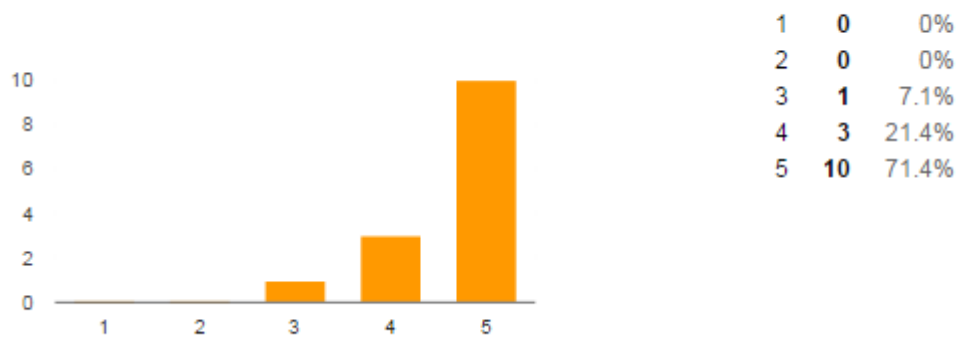

Most of the feedback received from students is positive, as you can see below, where there are results of such questionnaires implemented for each course delivered at the MSc in Project Management). The questionnaires used a scale from 1 to 5, where 1 = very unsatisfied and 5 = very satisfied.

Other important results:

- 85,7% of the MSc students are interested in getting a PMI certification (PMP, CAPM).
- Over 90% of the MSc students would further recommend our program to their colleagues, friends or other acquaintances.

The management of CCPR is satisfied with the MSc's development and results, encouraging teachers and administrative staff of the program to further involve in actions to help the program grow more and more.
